

Headteacher Update, Week 17

I hope you had a fantastic Christmas and New Year with friends and family.

Celebrating Success

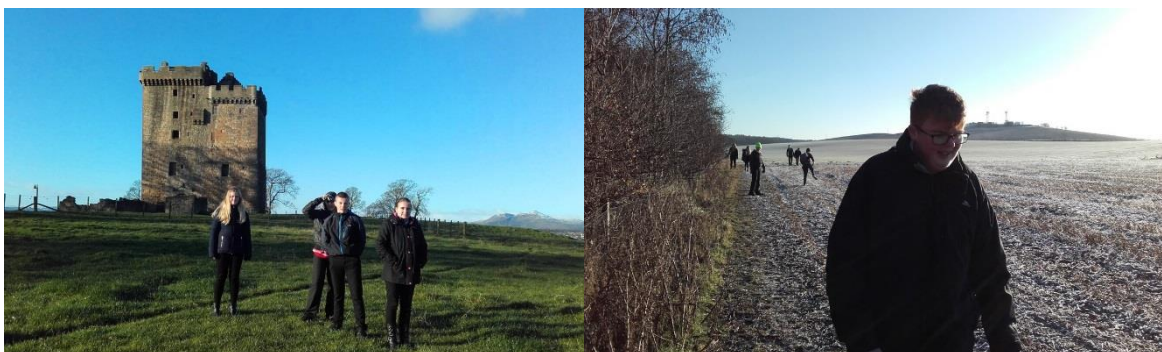

Burns Competition

I was delighted to see Alloa Academy young people do very well at the Alloa Burns Competition held at Lornshill Academy. Well done to James Twist who won the Competition with his version of 'Ca The Yowes' and in second place, Sophie Dickson. We are all very proud of you both and look forward to hearing your songs/poems.

Duke of Edinburgh

One of the curriculum developments we have discussed is the addition of the Duke of Edinburgh course. It was great to see some of the pupils in EASN enjoying outdoor learning in our beautiful countryside. EASN are ahead of the game with having pupils achieving DoE this session 2017/18.

Looking Forward

I look forward to the coming year and I hope you have made your own New Year's resolutions.

My own resolution is to read more books. To date, this resolution has only included "Horrid Henry" books. My lad Ben is obsessed with Horrid Henry!

I hope you have enjoyed the first week back and that you look forward to sharing our pupils' progress at parents evening this coming week.

Regards

Mr Bruce
